

The synapse of my choices.

A synapse is a junction between two nerve cells, consisting of a minute gap across which impulses pass through the diffusion of a neurotransmitter.

So, as I make a choice, which part of my brain is that choice coming from?

The End.

Written by Peter Skeels © March 2024